FOREST FIRE INCENDIARY CONFESSES

* *

Nevada City Merchants 100 Percent Behind President

Youth Admits He Set Four Newtown Fires

An inciendiary who confessed to setting four fires in the vicinity of Newtown was arrested Saturday night by officials of the State C. C. C. camp, and placed in the county jail.

His name is Milton Markham and his age is 21 years. C .C. C. camp officials do not regard him as of no mentality. His mother resides near Galt in Sacramento county but his family lived in this section in former years.

Markham was sighted by the fire fighters starting new blazes on a distant ridge, last Saturday afternoon, though he could not be identified in the distance,. Energetic efforts to arrest the man, finally resulted in his capture. There is plenty of evidence that many of the fires were of incendiary origin.

Markham was arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Oscar Winburn in Grass Valley. By courtesy he was represented by Attorney William Cassateri. The accused man waived preliminary examination and expressed the desire to plead guilty to arson. He appared before Judge Raglan Tuttle this aftersoon at 3:00 o'clock but he changed his mind and his plea to not guilty.

Markham was apprehended by Horace Kennedy, investigator for the State Forestry bureau and W. C. Sharp in charge of the camp.

After consulting with his attorney, William Cassatteri, however Markham again changed his plea to guilty. The court immediately sentenced him to an indeterminate period in San Quentin.

Deputy District Attorney Robert Tharp appeared for the people.

FIRES PRACTICALLY OUT

W. F. Shrap, chief of the State Forest Rangers in charge of the C. C. C. camp just outside this city, stated this morning, that the fires were now practically all out but that patrols were being maintained at French Corral and at the Stockdale ranch.

The State C. C. C. camp used its entire personnel of 225 men in the battle with the flames on four fronts, namely, the American ranch, the George Bayers ranch, French Corral and Newtown.

In addition to men of the state camp the National camps at Bear Valley, Bloomfield and Placerville sent men to aid the state fire fighters, so that at the peak of the battle some 400 men were engaged in the struggle to control the flames. These were supplimented by residents in the various sections, especially in French Corral, where the entire able bodied male population turned out in a desperate effort to save their homes from destruction.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM FLAMES

Mr. Sharp states that 21 of the C. C. C. fighters had a very close call for their lives Friday afternoon when after setting a back fire in a ravine near French Corral the wind changed and the men found themselves between two fires. A small ditch in the ravine carrying mud, slime and water, was used as a refuge from the moving furnace. The men lay prone in this ditch until the fire had burned past them on both sides and all came out of the inferno unscathed. The men were in charge of Lieutenant Zick ad H. W. Bartel and obeyed orders like veteran soldiers on the firing line.

French Corral had an extremely narrow escape from destruction. The flames raged past the town on the west and swept through the cemetery where lie the pioneers of North San Juan Ridge. The wooden headboards are gone. Only the stone monuments ad iron railings remain, Beautiful trees and shrubs are blackened stumps.

Mrs. George Fortier had as week end visitors her sister, Mrs. Linnell, sister in law, Mrs. J. J. Murphy, of Woodland and her brother, J. J. Murphy, who is employed at the C. C. C. camp at North Bloomfield.

FREE GOLD
(Editorial)

What Nevada County needs what the Mother Lode needs, what all gold producing states need, is free gold. Years ago, many years ago, the silver miners cried for free silver. Today gold miners are demanding free gold, that is to say, they want the world market price for gold which is approximately $30 an ounce, as against $20.67 which the U. S. government pays for it today.

It will make no difference to the mining industry whether the gold is shipped out into the world markets, or whether Uncle Sam pays the world market price right here at home. But it may and probably does make a vast difference to Uncle Sam whether the gold goes abroad or remains at home.

Now when mining operators and investors meet and spend a large portion of their time in discussing the insurance compensation laws, instead of planning a vigorous campaign to free gold from its present restricted market condition, it would seem as if they were off on the wrong trail.

Nothing can be done about the compensation laws until the legislature meets again, but a great deal can be done toward moving the administration at Washington, not to lift the embargo on new gold, but to establish the world price for gold in the home market. That is an immediate and just claim that should be brought to an issue. Congressmen Harry Englebright should have the vigorous assistance of Senators MacAdoo and Johnson. If mining men acting through their association would focus their efforts on that goal, we believe it would be but a short time before this injustice would be rectified.

FALLS DOWN WELL; LIVES TO TELL TALE

Falling down a well nearly 100 feet deep and being able to tell the story today, was the miraculous experience of Ernest Witmore, member of the C. C. C. camp in Bear Valley, yesterday. The accident happened on the Ridge route near Grass Valley. Friends of Witmore fished him out and brought him to the pay ward of the county hospital, where he now lies, suffering from painful lacerations and ebrasions, but with no bones broken and every indication that he will suffer no permanent ill affects.

N. S. G. W. HONOR MEMORY OF JOE V. SNYDER

Impressive services marked the dedication yesterday afternoon of a granite memorial to the late Joe V. Snyder, veteran newspaper man of Nevada City and Grass Valley at his grave in Green Lawn cemetery, Grass Valley.

The monument was erected by the Past Presidents Assembly of the Native Sons, and the arrangements were in charge of Dr. C. W. Chapman, chairman of the committee.

Attending the ceremony were Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, Past Junior Grand President Seth Millington, Grand First Vice President C. A. Koenig, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Historian Chester Gannon, Past Grand Trustees Irving Gibson and John Monteverdi, Past Grand Presidents Fred H. Greeley, Charles E. Dodge and Fletcher B. Cutler, and Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa county. There were a large number of members of the Fred H. Greeley Past Presidents assembly present. Lewis F. Byington, was away. The past grand presidents participating in the ceremony.

Judge Raglan Tuttle, president of Hydraulic parlor, Frank Hooper president of Quartz Parlor, a large representation of both parlors, and many Native Daughters were in attendance.

The program opened with an invocation by the Rev. E. O. Chapel of Grass Valley. Mrs. Katherine Celio sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Grand Secretary John T. Regan then briefly sketched the career of Joe V. Snyder and the part he had borne in the upbuilding of the Native Sons organization in Nevada county.

Grand President Seawell gave the dedication address which was followed by a solo by Harold Hanson, entitled: "Friend of Mine." Judge Fletcher B. Cutler, Past Grand President then delivered the eulogy. Mrs. Katherine Celio followed with another beautiful solo, "I Love You California."

The monument draped with the Stars and Stripes and the Bear Flag was then unveiled by Past Grand President Fred H. Greeley and Past Grand President Mrs. Allison Watts of the Native Daughters, who gave a brief account of the late journalist's fraternal associations. All joined in singing the "Star Spangled Banner." The Rev. Chapel closed with a benediction. Marshall Geiselman was the accompaniest for all the musical numbers.

The monument bears the inscription in raised letters: "Joe V. Snyder, Past Grand President, N. S. G. W. Served in 1918."

Chamber Wires Codes Now Being Prepared

President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Saturday received the following telegram from the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce:

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President United States of America,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

The citizens of Nevada City in enthusiastic meeting assembled Friday night heatily endorsed principles announced in your employment agreement of the National Recovery Act. Local business employers have subscribed to its terms one hundred percent. Codes of fair competition are now being prepared for approval. This community extends to you its sincere appreciation of the notable steps you are initiating for national industrial recovery and assures you of its complete willingness to afford every assistance and co-operation in working local details.

NEVADA CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
FRED F. CASSIDY, President.

The message was prepared by E. M. Rector following a mass meeting of merchants in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday evening, at which Mr. Rector was asked by President Fred Cassidy to do this service for the chamber.

President Cassidey yesterday stated that, wherever practical, the chamber desired that Nevada City NRA committeemen should work with Grass Valley committeemen in formulating codes to govern each line of business and industry. That is to say, there should be a uniform code for the two cities in the same lines of business or industry.

"This, he added, "is merely a recommendation and it is perfectly in order for any line of business in either town to get out a separate code. If they wish to do so.

"The kind invitation of the Grass Valley organization to join them in this great work, having one body take care of the interests of both communities, was given due consideration, but it was the sense of the meeting that separate bodies would be more efficient so the invitation was declined."

Site Of Stage Holdup And Murder Is Marked

Following the dedication of a great memorial at the grave of Joe V. Snyder in the Green Lawn cemetery in Grass Valley yesterday afternoon by the Native Sons, the entire concourse of grand and past grand officials, members of the past presidents' assembly and members of Hydraulic and Quartz parlors together with many Native Daughters and their officers, proceeded out the Blue Tent road and erected a temporary wooden marker on the site of the Meyers stage hold-up and murder October 31, 1894.

Arthur Meyers, driver of the Bloomfield stage, carrying bullion and gold dust from the mines above was suddenly called on to halt when the stage reached a point in the road about one mile east of the Hoge mine.

All his life Meyers had been noted for a peculiar mannerism of thrusting his left hand into his pants trousers pocket and placing his right on his hip. When the command came to halt and throw up his hands, he instinctively thrust the reins of his four horse team between his knees. He was breaking two young horses to the stage, and apparently feared they would bolt.

But instead of raising his hands over his head, as the highwayman ordered, it is believed his life long habit asserted itself. His right went back to his hip and the other sought his left trouser pocket. Instantly the robber fired, the bullet tearing through his body two inches below the heart. Meyers slumped forward into the boot, his body clamping down the reins across the footboard. The horses did not bolt.

There was one solitary passenger aboard. This man hopped out of the stage and went racing down the road behind the stage, shouting as he ran. The robber took two shots at the fleeing man, failed to hit him and then hastily made his own getaway with no attempt to secure the bullion.

Peter and Cary Arbogast, appraised of the hold-up by the fleeing passenger, went promptly to the scene. Peter Arbogast took the reins from under the dead body of Meyers and drove the stage into Nevada City. Arriving, he drove down Broad street, crossed the bridge, turned around, and crossing again came back up Broad street stopping at a mortuary establishment that stood near where the O'Neil plumbing shop now is. The body of Meyers was left there.

Only a minute or two later Ed Baker with a load of freight on his wagon started to cross the bridge, coming up Broad. The bridge buckled in the middle and let him, his horses and his wagon through to the bed of the creek. He suffered a broken arm and other injuries.

Search for the highwayman proved vain. His identity was never established though suspicion pointed strongly at a certain individual.

This in brief is the history of the event which the Native Sons yesterday commemorated on the Blue Tent road. Peter Arbogast was present in person to designate the exact spot where the hold-up and murder occured. The little ceremony was arranged by Dr. C. W. Chapman, chairman of the same committee which dedicated a granite memorial a few hours earlier to the late Joe V. Snyder.

GRIM REAPER CALLS GEORGE CLEMO TO REST

Many will regret hearing that Mr. George Clemo passed away at Livermore, California.

Mr. Clemo is a World War Veteran. He was born in Nevada City in 1895. His occupation was that of a hoisting engineer. Surviving Mr. Clemo is his wife, Mrs. Verra Clemo.

The funeral will be held today at 3:30 p. m. at the Holmes Hooper Home, Grass Valley. The Rev. Washburn will be in charge of the service and the Legion will hold a full military service under the auspices of Thomas Hegarty Post. Mrs. Dorsey will sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Interment will be in the Pine Grove cemetery.

DITCH FOR CITY PIPE LINE IS COMPLETED

The ditch for the new pipe line from the Clarence Shurtleff home in Gold Flat to the Canada Hill reservoir ,was completed last Friday evening.

Supervisor C. S. Arbogast had a crew of men who did the work in record time. The last day was spent in cutting out all little corners and uneven places in the 2900 feet of ditch so that pipe laying can start early this week.

Herbert and Henry Paine of Lake City, were Nevada City visitors Saturday.

Legislature To Meet This Fall, Forecast

Governor Rolph this afternoon singned the 2½ per cent sales tax bill. He did not sign the income tax bill, of which he disapproves, and stated he would take more time to think it over.

SACRAMENTO, July 31—(UP)—Prospects of a special session of the legislature in the fall or winter were considered bright today, after legislators adjourned their unprecedented mid-summer session without balancing the state budget.

The lawmakers went home leaving a "red" balance estimated at between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000. Rolland Vandegrift, director of finance, holds the latter figure is correct.

If, as is freely predicted, Governor Rolph vetoes the income tax bill, this deficit will be increased by $10,000,000.

HIGH LIGHTS OF SESSION

Outstanding achievements were.

Passage of a 2 and one-half per cent sales tax which will raise $100,000,000. This estimate is reached by striking midway between conservative and optimistic estimate of the tax yield.

Passage of a personal income tax intended to hit the man in the higher income brackets and spare the "little fellow." Estimated yield $11,000,000.

Approval of strengthening amendments to the state inheritance tax, bringing an additional $1,500,000.

Approval of the $160,000,000 revenue bond act of the Great Central Valley water project, thus qualifying this vast enterprise for inclusion in the federal public works program.

CONFORMATION

Passage of a group of bills conforming state statutes with President Roosevelt's national recovery act, federal agricultural act and the Glass-Steagall bank deposit gurantee legislation.

Approval of a measure making kidnaping for extortion where the victim is maltreated, a capital offense.

Appropriation of an additional $750,000 for junior colleges along with a number of other smaller appropriations bringing the total up to slightly over $1,000,000.

In the final analysis, the state's budget for the fiscal years 1933 and 1935 is $333,000,000, the largest budget in the state's history by a large margin. Each day during the next two years, the astounding sum of $442,000 will be expanded on the maintenance and operation of state government.

E. R. McMath of San Francisco, spent the week end in Nevada City. Upon his return he was accompanied by his wife, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed Trimmer and family a few weeks, and her sister, Mrs. Sadie Rogers, who will visit in the bay region for a time.

PRIMROSE EMPIRE TO DRIVE MILE OF TUNNEL

The Primrose Empire Mining Company, near Sierra City, expects to start driving a 5000 foot tunnel early in Stepember.

For several weeks a crew of 11 men have been employed in developing the mine and small production is resulting from the work.

The mill equipped to handle 40 tons of ore in 24 hours was placed in operation just after the Fourth of July on gold ore running $10, to $12, a ton.

A. H. Campbell of Seattle who has been identified with mining many years, is president of the company and Allen L. Hearst superintendent.

ANCHO ERIE DISCOVERS NEW AND RICH ORE BODY

H. C. Lewis and G. S. Barnhart, lessees at the Ancho-Erie mine of the West Mines Corporation, between Washington and Graniteville, have marketed $900 worth of gold bullion. This is the product of a 10 day run, handling 15 tons a day from a new area 30 feet above the tunnel.

All previous work has been on a fair grade of ore four to five inches wide. At 30 feet the raise opend a block 130x260 feet and returned an average of $6.85 a ton, according to test.

SHARP THUNDERSTORM BRINGS RAIN DOWNPOUR

A sharp, quick thunderstorm visited this section this afternoon shortly after two o'clock. Heavy electrical explosions causing reverberating peals of thunder was followed with a five minute down-pour of rain.

Loren Williams was a business visitor in Sacramento the latter part of last week.

WHAT THE PRESS THINKS OF THE STOCK MARKET

The recent crash of stock market prices shouldn't cause any alarm generally, in the opinion of California editors.

Highly speculative operations of the past few weeks, they agree, bear little relation to the prospect for future prosperity.

"The correct attitude to take toward the violent fluctuations which have occurred in the stock market is completely to ignore them," said the San Jose News. "Founded on the guesses and fears of a lot of 'frenzied financiers' bent upon getting money out of stock gambling, they bear not the slightest relation to general business conditions. There are certain indices of business which have some value—steel production, consumption of electricity, railroad carloadings, etc. What the stock market does from day to day has not the slightest value as an indicator of the business condition of the country."

"Except for the unfortunates actively 'in the market,' and those victimized by a crooked game," remarks the Merced Sun-Star, "there's no more need to worry over the spectacular slump in securities and commodities than has there been reason for enthusiasm because of preceding speculative price gains. For 'the market' is no index of fundamental economic conditions. It's a weather vane, right, but it responds to nothing substantial. It charts the speculative winds, registers whether bull or bear at the moment has the balance in financial power. Above all, it's a machine to catch sucker money compared with which a crooked roulette wheel is a moral instrument."

"The value of securities is dependent upon the capacity of the corporation issuing them to earn a return," comments the Bakersfield Californian. "That return is based upon the consumer demand. If production outruns consumption there can be no real prosperity in the country, and in the absence of it, there is no sound reason for a speculative increase in the stock market."

"Stock speculation, always bad," in the opinion of the Santa Rosa Press Democrat, "is especially undersirable at a time like this when the administration is battling for the recovery of American business and industry. We do not want stocks at advance beyond a reasonable value, justified by business and industrial improvement. Such paper advances can only result in a disturbing reaction later on."

"It is perfectly apparent," said the Santa Ana Register, "that the older and the bigger boys in the game have lost none of their cunning or technique. They watched with glee as the prices soared, slowly unloading and reaping a profit, and then suddenly shoving blocks of stocks on the market, until the prices tumbled, at which they themselves can buy them up if they desire, and repeat the process on the millions of dumb ones."

"The biggest peril to American prosperity today is stock speculation," according to the Chico Record. "It is pleasant to have prices soaring on 'Change, with 7,000,000 share days and improved tickers half an hour behind sales, and gains of five to ten points in a day on big issues. It saves a lot of banks and insurance companies and trust funds, and helps people pay their debts and makes everybody feel better. But it is a financial drunk which may bring on a national headache and, if persevered in, another case of national delirium tremens.

VICTORY CHANT SUNG BY WETS

By THOMAS B. MALARKEY

SACRAMENTO, July 31—(UP)—The day for which all true-blue wets had been praying years last Monday when 22 delegates to the repeal convention met in the assembly chambers and unanimously voted in favor of striking the 18th amendment from the constitution.

It was a grand field day for repealists. The assembly resounded with oratory leavened by a few humorous quips offered by Will Rogers and Assemblyman William B. Hornblower.

California voted on June 27 to repeal the 18th amendment by a three to one margin. All 22 wet delegates, of course, were elected.

Nevada county's official vote on the prohibition repeal issue, according to Secretary Frank C. Jordan's office was, yes 2,637; no, 454.

H. H. Cotton, Los Angeles, led the repeal delegates with a total vote of 1,019,818. He was elected president of the convention. The Rev. Robert (Bob) Shuler was in the van of the dry delegates with 319,981. Only a few vetoes separated the dry delegates and the same held true with the wets.

The convention, was a mere formality. But it did afford the wets the opportunity to chant the victory song.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simmons and son and Miss Carrie Arthur, all of San Francisco, motored to Nevada City for the past week end.

WEEKLY COMMENT

By CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

The band concerts of the last two Wednesday evenings have been worth while. Mr. Sweeney and his organization of young people are a credit to the city. They are doing their bit to keep the cultural consciousness of the town alive and they should receive the financial support of those who can spare a dollar and the moral support of everyone. Wouldn't it be fine if some way could be found to build a small outdoor Greek theatre with the bandshell for weekly concerts and the stage to be used for local productions, benefits etc.

We will soon find out just how it will seem to work out the plans of our super-executive in Washington. I hope these plans work out better than our own have, up til now. Anyway, late or early here is the old shoulder to the wheel and when F. D. R. says, "heave ho!" let's bend the spokes in this effort to take ourselves and the country out of the financial morass.

News item tells about a big strike in Pennsylvania and that sort of thing is liable to bring on prosperity all by itself.

Picture of Lincoln Steffens in the Metropolitan Press makes him look like I think Fu Wing Lu should look. Anyway Steffens is shrewd enough to keep his name in the headlines and that has meant something to him.

Could not finish the column last night and so like Pepys I am up early this publication day looking for inspiration.

It is raining just a wee few drops is that another unusual phenomena here at this time of the year?

Did you notice the motorlogue in the Methopolitan Press of Sunday all about this section of the country and quite interesting.

We seldom realize how easily our places could be filled. One day a man is considered indispensable, the day after he is gone some one else is doing his work, and in a few days more he is forgotten.

Success depends very little on surrounding conditions. A man who is succeeding does so regardless of his environment. As one philosopher once said, "To do a comon thing uncommonly well brings success."

JOHNSON, STATE TREASURER HITS SPOILS SYSTEM

SACRAMENTO, July 31—Characterizing the political "spoils system" as shop-worn and "a distinct handicap to honest public service," State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, in a statement today, predicted that California will shortly renounce bureaucratic government and abolish concentration of authority under the Governor's office.

In a three-point plan for eliminating many of the evils of the "spoils system," State Treasurer Johnson recommended:

1. Limiting the Governor to one term of four years.
2. Elimination of all unnecessary bureaus and commissions.
3. Establishment of a constitutional government, for the most part, with government departments concentrated largely under the State's elective constitutional officers.

PRESENT SYSTEM MEDIEVAL

Treasurer Johnson's statement follows:

"The political spoils system in California is based on old mediaeval theories that 'to the victor belongs the spoils' and that 'those who live by the sword shall die by the sword.'

"The application of these ideas to modern government is a distinct handicap to honest and efficient public service and will continue to retard every effort of the public to insure its welfare against this evil.

"The system is firmly rooted in the great number of bureaus, departments and commissions constituting the bureaucratic form of government, the administrative officers of which are controlled by appointment by the governor.

POLITICAL MACHINE

"Constitutional officers, on the other hand, are re-elected from term to term, thereby preserving the valuable and efficient training of their personnel.

"The personnel of the bureaucratic setup is generally considered the political machine of the Governor, calculated to promote his political future and insure his re-election. But it has apparently lost even the doubtful virtue of political expediency, for California does not re-elect its Governors.

"There are three practical means of eliminating, or at least lessening the evil effects of the spoils system. One is to limit the term of Governor to four years. Another is to abolish all unnecessary bureaus, commissions and departments. And the third is to amalgamate the necessary agencies with the constitutional offices, thus establishing a constitutional government, as intended by the founders.

MUST SATISFY POLITICIANS

"Upon the inauguration of a Governor, he is confronted with the problem of satisfying sectional politicians and their selfish demands, based on the old chain that 'to the victor belongs the spoils.' Favorites are selected, not for their fitness but as a reward for their political or financial contributions during the campaign, and hundreds of able, efficient employees are replaced by political appointments. That type of government has made for wanton extravagance and inefficiency and is entirely out of step with present-day conditions.

"California can ill afford to continue with its present archaic and broken-down system of playing ward politics with state business. The limitation of Governor to a single term would remove some of the urge to build political machines at the taxpayers' expense. And the spread of authority among the various elective state officers, who are responsive to public demand, would be of very substantial help in perfecting a permanent and efficient state personnel."

RANCHER PLEADS FOR LOCOMOTIVE MUFFLERS

COLFAX, July 31—(UP)—Sleep-disturbing locomotives should be muffled in the opinion of Paul McCulloch, local fruit rancher.

Speaking before the Colfax chamber of Commerce, McCulloch protested against the noise made by engines passing through this city over the main lines of the Southern Pacific. Much of it was unnecessary, he contended.

And he argued, if mufflers have a quieting effect on automobiles why shouldn't they produce like results on locomotives.

Will and Henry Walthers motored up from San Francisco last Friday and returned that evening with Mrs. Will Walthers, who had spent two weeks visiting her brother, James Dolan and wife.

RIM OF TAHOE ROAD DEDICATION AUG. 6

Heralding a new scenic route for motorists, the Tahoe-Rim of the Lake Drive will be dedicated next Sunday (August 6) with ceremonies at Panoramic Point, reports the California State Automobile Association. The drive around the famous Sierra lake is expected to become one of the most popular of the west's many world renowned trips for motorists, according to the Lake Tahoe-Sierra Association, which will conduct the dedication in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Public Roads. The scene of the ceremonies will be in a natural amphitheater about half way between Brockway and Glenbrook.

For the past several months the Bureau of Public Roads has been engaged in modernizing the former "missing link" in the circuit of the lake. This section is a stretch of about twenty miles between Brockway and the Clear Creek Highway summit above Glenbrook. Prior to this improvement work the road was steep and narrow, with many sharp turns. On the California side of Lake Tahoe good road conditions have prevailed for a considerable time. The improved section now makes possible a comfortable drive encircling the entire lake, with nearly a hundred miles of unsurpassed views.

MILLION A MONTH FOR C. C. C. CAMP WORKERS

SACRAMENTO, July 31—(UP)—Major Horace G. Foster is positive there is no unemployment as far as he is concerned.

Major Foster, as finance officer of the Ninth corps area, has to sign more than 35,000 checks every month.

The checks represent pay for the conservation corps workers in the area, and are distributed to the dependents of the C. C. C. workers.

Each batch of checks totals around $1,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dyer and his sister-in-law of Santa Rosa, spent a short time here visiting old acquaintances. He has been employed by the S. P. company for about 30 years, previous to that Mr. Dyer and his father owned and operated a dairy when Mr. Casci now lives east of Nevada City.

BOY TRAPPERS AND CHIPMUNK START FIRE

QUINCY, July 31—(UP)—Just one of the things that annoy forest rangers.

Three small boys camping with their parents in Plumas National forest wanted to catch a chipmunk. They built a trap, using matches for the trigger. The chipmunk sprung the trap, igniting the matches, which in turn fired pine needles and brush to start a forest fire.

Hastily summoned rangers arrived in time to extinguish the blaze before it could gain headway.

NEVADA CO. GETS $10,712 OF ROAD FUND OF STATE

By MELVIN LORD

SACRAMENTO, July 31—(UP)—Apportionment of the second quarter motor vehicle fuel fund totaling $8,619,082 has been announced by Ray L. Riley, state controller, to give new impetus to road work in California.

Of the total amount in the fund, $2,873,027 will be distributed to the counties, including $10,712 to Nevada county, the announcement stated.

The remainder of the quarter's fund, a total of $5,746,054 will go into the state fund for the construction and maintenance of state highways.

State records show that the apportionment for the same period in 1932 amounted to $8,932,396, indicating a decrease of $304,314 for the second quarter of this year as compared to $1932.

Despite the recent decrease in the revenues from the 3-cent gasoline tax, county road funds will be in better shape than ever before, in the opinion of state officials.

As a result of the adoption of the bill whereby the state takes over almost 7,000 additional miles into the secondary highway system, a substantial portion of road costs will be lifted from the counties.

At the same time gas tax allowances will be made to cities for main thoroughfares.

Another change in the law provides that in addition to the minimum of $20,000 a year allowed each county, the remainder is allocated to all counties on the basis of motor vehicle registration. In this way the small counties receive more than ever before inasmuch as many of them were only allowed the minimum amount in the past.

Allocations for the quarter ranged from $1,059,192 for Los Angeles county, to $5,139 for Alpine county.

ROLPH "IS ON THE SPOT" AGAIN

SACRAMENTO, July 31—(UP)—Pity Governor Rolph. He's "on the spot." The issue is the personal income tax bill passed during the hectic closing hours of the mid-summer session.

Tremendous pressure is being brought to bear on the governor to veto the income tax. At the present writing, there is ample evidence he will do just that.

Which ever way he turns, he's bound to be criticised. It's a case of "d——d if you do and d——d if you don't." If he disapproves the measure, he will be charged with signing a "poor man's" tax (the sales tax) but sparing the rich man. If he signs it, another group will declare he has approved a bill that: 1, will keep away prospective investors and new residents; 2, abandons a traditional California taxation policy; 3, superimposes a state tax on a federal tax.

Republican leaders claim the origin of the income tax bill was purely political. Democrats need 1934 campaign fodder. So, the story goes, they swung in behind the income tax on the theory it would be killed by senate republicans. Then Bourbons could have trumpted the republicans were quite willing to levy a sales on the poor but refused to approve an equalixing tax on the rich.

The republicans refused to bite. Much to the surprise of all, they passed the bill.

Assuming the income tax will be vetoed, the governor will certainly call a special legislative session by fall or early winter. Legislators left the state government with a deficit estimated between $15,000,000 and $30,000,000. With the income tax bill killed by veto, this red balance would amount to around $40,000,000, according to some estimates.

The governor's special session legislative program would include: balance the budget; appropriate additional funds for state agencies crippled by low biennial allocations and, possibly, replenshment of the state emergency fund.

A determined senate minority killed Rheba Crawford Splivalo's hopes for an additional $134,00 for her social welfare department. One bill carried an $134,000 for social welfare; $70,000 for the narcotics division; $37,000 for the bureau of criminal identification and $12,000 for judicial council. When the bill reached the senate, additional appropriations totaling $937,000 were loaded on. That made the legislation so top heavy the senate couldn't stomach it.

Silence is, perhaps the best policy . . Assemblyman Clifford Anglim, Richmond, an effective speaker, addressed the lower house only three times during the entire session . . . each time was on a major bill and each time he won out . . . Roland Tognazzini, Los Angeles, may be appointed insurance commissioner after all . . . The governor has E. Forrest Mitchell's resignation effective in August . . . then he will appoint a successor whose confirmation is not necessary until the next legislative session . . senate opposition, it was reported, impelled Governor J. Rolph to withdraw the name of Dan o'Brien as a member of the California Horse racing board . . early in the session, the assembly voted for abolition of capital punishment . . on the last day, the same body overwhelmingly approved a bill making kidnaping a capital offense . . . State Treasurer Charles Johnson will run for governor on a three-plank platform: eliminate the "spoils" system; discard unnecessary bureaus and commissions; concentration of governmental departments under the state's elective constitutional officers.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HOLDS ELECTION TONIGHT

EEL AND OLD COIN ARE FOUND IN SLUICE BOXES

Earl H. Ricketts owner of a claim on Oregon creek has plenty of unusual experiences. The other morning he was cleaning out his sluice boxes when he happened to glance at the funnel that discharges water into the boxes and out from the small end came squirming a fat eel two feet long. No, Mr. Ricketts does not like eels and he turned this one loose.

A few days ago while shoveling gravel in to his sluice boxes, Mr. Rickets turned up an old silver coin bearing the date: "1832." He believes it to be an old German coin, but owing to abrasions he cannot be sure. However, he proposes to submit to an expert.
